wrinkle eraser

The latest hi-tech tool for smoothing wrinkles is the CoolTouch laser. Treatments are done in a doctor's office, usually two to three weeks apart, in a series of three to six. And you can do it on your lunch hour! "There is no wound or bleeding, so no one will have a clue that a procedure has been performed," explains David J. Goldberg, M.D.,

alexandra investigates

Have you had a "lunchtime peel" yet? Performed by dermatologists and plastic surgeons, they are recommended for acne, fine lines and hyperpigmentation. The word peel is a misnomer - no one is actually peeling anything off your face. What really happens: The doctor paints a potent mixture of alpha and beta hydroxy acids that tingle on your face for a few minutes, then you rinse it off. That's it - your skin looks fresher and smoother instantly. But these peels cost $150-$225, and are recommended in a series of three to six. Which equals a lot of cash. I wanted something I could try at home instead, and I really liked the Alpha Beta Peel Home Facial System, $60 (888-830SKIN). Created by dermatologist Dennis Gross, M.D., this package consists of two jars of pre-medicated pads. First, you rub a Step 1 pad, which has alpha and beta hydroxy acids in it, over your face. Wait three minutes, then rub on a Step 2 pad, which neutralizes the acids and deposits a moisturizer on your skin. To be used every a.m. The results are cumulative: After 2 weeks, my skin definitely looks smoother.

The Conair Mini Straightener, $12.99, is small and light - stash it in your overnight bag or gym tote. Makes your hair shiny and sleek in just minutes.

Air-tight packaging means powerful skin-saving ingredients like Vitamin C and retinol, stay fresh and active.
